National Inquiry into Missing and Murdered Indigenous Women & Girls

Jennifer Moore Rattray

Please join Jennifer Moore Rattray, former Executive Director of the National Inquiry into Missing and Murdered Indigenous Women and Girls, for an important and timely discussion about research and policy-making within the context of the historic and recently concluded National Inquiry. At this time of reconciliation, learn more about one of the most critical issues facing Canada today. Engaging themes around Indigenous rights, community engagement, trauma-informed administration and equity, this presentation offers foundational and practical advice for policy thinkers, developers, and leaders in Canada today.
